

1

LISTING OF THE CLAIMS

2 Please amend claims 19, 22 and 27 as indicated in the following claims
3 listing:

4 Claims 1-18 (canceled).

5

6 Claim 19 (currently amended). A method, comprising:

7 providing a client interface, a literature assembly algorithm, and a database
8 containing information, wherein the client interface comprises at least a portion of a network;

9 detecting a client inquiry via the client interface;

10 presenting the information to the client via the client interface in response to the inquiry;

11 receiving a client selection of at least a portion of the information via the client interface in response to presenting the information;

12 in response to receiving the client selection, assembling the selected
13 information into a document, wherein the algorithm automatically specifies client does 14 not specify an arrangement of components to create the document;

15 obtaining an electronic image, comprising:

16 the document; and,

17 a postage marking calculated based on a total weight of a booklet;

18 and,

19 printing the electronic image onto one or more sheets of print media.

20

21 Claim 20 (previously presented). The method of claim 19, further comprising:

22 presenting a name and address prompt via the client interface; and,

23 receiving a client name and postal address in response to presenting the name and address prompt.

o

24

25 Claim 21 (previously presented). The method of claim 20, wherein the electronic image further comprises the client name and postal address.

1 Claim 22 (currently amended). The method of claim 19, wherein the ~~further selected~~
2 information comprises an image to be purchased by the client.

3 Claim 23 (previously presented). The method of claim 22, wherein the image to be
4 purchased by the client is substantially in the form of sheet music.

5 Claim 24 (previously presented). The method of claim 22, wherein the image to be
6 purchased by the client is substantially in the form of artistic graphics.

7 Claim 25 (previously presented). The method of claim 22, wherein the image to be
8 purchased by the client is substantially in the form of literary text.

9 Claim 26 (previously presented). The method of claim 22, wherein the image to be
10 purchased by the client is substantially in the form of technical data.

11 Claim 27 (currently amended). A method, comprising:

12        providing a literature assembly algorithm and a client interface, wherein the 13 client interface comprises at least a portion of a network;

14        detecting a client inquiry via the client interface;

15        presenting an information selection prompt via the client interface in response
16 to the client inquiry;

17        receiving a client selection via the client interface in response to presenting 18 the information selection prompt;

19        accessing a read only memory device and retrieving selected data
20 corresponding to the client selection;

21        in response to receiving the client selection, assembling the selected data into 22 a document, wherein the algorithm automatically specifies ~~client does not specify~~ an 23 arrangement of components to create the document;

24        obtaining an electronic image comprising:

25            the document; and,

          a postage marking calculated based on a total weight of a booklet;

and,

printing the electronic image onto one or more sheets of print media.

1 Claim 28 (previously presented). The method of claim 27, further comprising:
2 presenting a name and address prompt via the client interface; and,
3 receiving a client name and postal address in response to presenting the name and address prompt.

5 Claim 29 (previously presented). The method of claim 28, wherein the electronic
6 image further comprises the client name and postal address.

7 Claim 30 (previously presented). The method of claim 27, wherein the selected data
8 comprises an image to be purchased by the client.

10 Claim 31 (previously presented). The method of claim 30, wherein the image to be
11 purchased by the client is substantially in the form of sheet music.

12 Claim 32 (previously presented). The method of claim 30, wherein the image to be
13 purchased by the client is substantially in the form of artistic graphics.

15 Claim 33 (previously presented). The method of claim 30, wherein the image to be
16 purchased by the client is substantially in the form of literary text.

17 Claim 34 (previously presented). The method of claim 30, wherein the image to be
18 purchased by the client is substantially in the form of technical data.

22 -- End of Amendments to the Claims --

25 (Continued on next page.)